Natural Stone Veneer vs Culture Stone

Stone Veneer can be made of natural stone or manufactured stone (i.e. cement).

Natural Stone Veneer is made from real stone that is either collected or from quarried stone. Usually thinner than Culture Stone, Natural Stone Veneer is cut thinner to avoid added weight to any wall. They are also known as thin stone veneer.

Culture Stone is manufactured to resemble the Natural Stone Veneer by using light weight concrete and a variation of color pigments and rubber or fiberglass molds. Another difference between the two types of veneers is the quality. It is important to choose a credible manufacturer of Culture Stone that can guarantee the quality of their product. With Natural Stone you do not have to worry about your material fading years after installed.

At Cast-One Creations we offer the highest quality in Stone Veneer with the best prices to cater to your budget. The hardest part is choosing the style and color you like most.
